Policy Summary:
The Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) issued Statement No. 76, The Hierarchy of Generally Accepted Accounting Principles for State and Local Governments, in June 2015. This statement incorporates the hierarchy of generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) for state and local governments into the GASB’s authoritative literature. It is intended to make it easier for preparers of state and local government financial statements to identify and apply the GAAP hierarchy, which consists of sources of accounting principles used in the preparation of financial statements so that they are presented in conformity with GAAP. The hierarchy also provides a framework for selecting those principles.

Prior to Statement No. 76, the GAAP hierarchy was defined by Statement No. 55, which moved relevant portions of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants’ (AICPA) Statement on Auditing Standards (SAS) No. 69, The Meaning of Present Fairly in Conformity with Generally Accepted Accounting Principles, to the GASB literature without substantive changes. GASB Statement No. 76 significantly changes the GAAP hierarchy by simplifying the structure and reducing the number of categories of authority.

Accounting Policy Requirements:
The GAAP hierarchy governs what constitutes generally accepted accounting principles for all state and local governmental entities. It lists the order of priority of pronouncements that a reporting organization should look to for accounting and financial reporting guidance. Those State reporting organizations that do not use GAAP in recording day-to-day transactions must be familiar with the selection of generally accepted accounting principles in the GAAP hierarchy to facilitate preparation of GAAP reporting at fiscal year-end.

Accounting Treatment:
The table below summarizes the sources of accounting principles that are generally accepted, with Category-A and Category-B reflecting the strongest category of authority followed by other nonauthoritative sources.
If the accounting treatment for a transaction or event is not specified by a pronouncement in Category-A, the reporting organization should consider whether the accounting treatment is specified by an accounting principle from a source in Category-B.

If the accounting treatment for a transaction or event is not addressed by an authoritative source, then a reporting organization should consider accounting principles for similar transactions or events within those authority categories, unless the accounting principles either prohibit the application of the accounting treatment to the particular transaction/event or indicate that the accounting treatment should not be applied by analogy. A reporting organization may also consider other accounting literature if a transaction or event is not addressed in authoritative GAAP. Examples of other literature appear in the “Other Sources” row of the hierarchy summary below.
